Test Claim 10-TC-03 "Municipal Regional Stormwater Permit—Santa Clara County."

Dear Mr. Bohan:

The Department of Finance (Finance) has reviewed the test claim on the Municipal Regional Stormwater Permit (test claim permit) submitted by the County of Santa Clara (claimant). The claimant alleges the test claim permit is a reimbursable state mandate because the test claim permit requirements exceed federal law, were not included in the prior 2001 permit that was amended in 2001 and 2005; and, therefore, impose a new program or higher level of service on local agency dischargers.

As noted in comments on prior claims based on other regional water boards' permits, Finance believes that the test claim permit does not impose a reimbursable state mandate on local agencies within the meaning of Article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution. The test claim permit and its requirements are required by the federal Clean Water Act (CWA). The claim should be denied pursuant to the federal mandate exception in Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c) for the following reasons:

- Finance believes the test claim permit and its provisions are federal mandates because they are required by federal law. Federal law already requires the United States Environmental Protection Agency to issue permits to regulate municipal separate storm sewer systems (MS4s) which are operated by local agencies (section 1342(p) of Title 33 of the United States Code). The state's role as a permitting authority acting on behalf of the federal government negates the existence of a state mandate because the test claim permit is issued in compliance with federal law. As determined in the County of Los Angeles v. Commission on State Mandates (1995) 32 Cal.App. 4th 805, no state mandate exists if the state requirements, in the absence of state statute, would still be imposed upon local agencies by federal law.
- Finance believes the detailed provisions of the permit do not exceed federal law even though they are not explicitly stated in the federal CWA. According to the test claim narrative, more activities are required in the test claim permit than in the prior 2001 permit. As noted in our prior comments, the alleged increased level of service is based on the evolving local agency documents submitted in support of the provisions of a permit. The federal government requires a public discharger to submit a plan that is descriptive and provides specific activities showing how pollutants will be reduced to the maximum extent practicable (MEP) in its jurisdiction. In support, the State Water Resources Control Board notes, in their January 27, 2010 comments on the Commission's draft staff analysis recommending partially reimbursable mandates for the San Diego Region test claim (07-TC-09), that stormwater permits follow an iterative process whereby each successive permit becomes more refined and expanded as needed. The iterative process is based on experiences under the previous permit and proposed best management practices the claimant recommended to reduce pollutant discharges from the MS4s to the MEP. The reduction in pollutant discharges is required by federal law to meet effluent limitations guidelines. Finance asserts that the additional permit activities were necessary for the claimant to continue to comply with the federal CWA. Pursuant to Government Code section 17556, subdivision (c), an executive order that imposes requirements mandated by federal law and results in costs is not a reimbursable state mandate unless the executive order mandates costs that exceed the federal mandate. The current permit does not exceed federal requirements.

- Finance also contends that the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board (Board), as an administrator of federal law, has not imposed a reimbursable state mandate exceeding federal law because the federally-delegated responsibilities and duties of the Board are consistent with the CWA. The federal law requires permits to include detailed activities or requirements, e.g., best management practices, to reduce discharge of pollutants to the MEP. The Board, a federally-approved permitting authority, also is required to set forth permitting requirements as long as the requirements are not less stringent than the requirements of the federal law pursuant to the CWA. Federal law does not prescribe or restrict the factors that a state may consider when exercising its permitting authority. Finance, therefore, believes that the specific provisions of the permit were necessary and consistent with the Board's federally-delegated authority to address how the local discharging agencies shall manage the discharge of pollutants unique to its waters. As a result, the Board has not imposed a state reimbursable mandate on local dischargers within the meaning of Article XIII B, section 6 of the California Constitution.
- Finance notes that the claimant cites an appellate court case that does not support the conclusion that the permit activities exceed federal law. In Long Beach Unified School District v. State of California (Long Beach) (1990) 225 Cal.App.3d 155, it was found that the state executive order requirements exceeded federal law by mandating school districts to undertake defined steps and approaches that might help alleviate racial segregation. The court noted that the general guidelines under prior governing law were merely advisory requirements or suggestions, but the detailed or specific activities set forth by the state were additional requirements beyond the general guidelines. Accordingly, the court found the state requirements exceeded the federal law. Unlike the situation in Long Beach, federal law requires permits to include specific requirements. Because federal law requires specific provisions in a permit, and the permit was issued consistent with that federal requirement, the permit is a federal mandate and not a state reimbursable mandate. As a result, Finance believes the state-issued permit does not exceed federal requirements.
- Finance believes that implementing permit activities is not a governmental function unique to local agency dischargers. Even though the test claim permit was issued to local agency dischargers (MS4s), only, the requirements within the test claim permit apply generally to public and private dischargers. While private dischargers may apply for separate permits, they have similar requirements as the public dischargers, such as submitting stormwater pollution prevention plans to apply for a permit. The federal law requires industrial dischargers to comply with all of the requirements, e.g., best practicable control technology, that any permit must contain (Section 1311(b)(1)(A) of Title 33 of United State Code). As a result, the test claim permit is not a reimbursable state mandate. In City of Richmond v. Commission on State Mandates (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 1190, the court found that, while a law may affect only local government, the law does not compel the conclusion that it imposes a unique requirement on local government. If the law puts local government on the same footing as other employers previously subject to the requirements newly imposed on local government, there is no reimbursable state mandate.

As required by the Commission's regulations, a "Proof of Service" has been enclosed indicating that the parties included on the mailing list dated February 3, 2011 have been provided with copies of this letter via either United States Mail or email.
